Mrs. Mullens' TAP class with LES Assistant Principal, Jessica Housley

Mrs. Mullens' TAP class outside of LES on September 10.

September has been an exciting month for Career and Technical Education in Campbell County, with students engaging in hands-on learning and showcasing their skills across multiple programs. TAP (Teaching as a Profession) students took their first school visit to LaFollette Elementary on September 10, where they observed in different classrooms and gained valuable insight into teaching in action. FFA members have been hard at work preparing for future Career Development Events by participating in clinics at Tennessee Tech University, while FBLA students traveled to the University of Tennessee for Big Orange Hospitality Day, connecting with professionals and exploring opportunities in business and leadership.

Culinary Arts students have been busy both in and out of the classroom. In addition to Culinary I students earning their ServSafe Food Handler industry certification, the program has partnered with CCHS Football and the booster club to prepare pregame meals for varsity and JV teams. Meanwhile, Cosmetology students completed detailed projects on the structure of hair, and CTE clubs and classes proudly entered projects into the county fair, bringing home a number of wins. These experiences highlight the wide range of opportunities CTE provides, preparing students for success while keeping learning exciting and relevant.

Students Complete OSHA10

Campbell County High School is proud to recognize students Stanford Montana, Greyson Delk, and Brayden Fugate for completing their OSHA10 certification, one of the most popular and valuable industry-recognized credentials offered through CTE. Already this year, a number of students have successfully completed the program, showing their dedication to safety and career readiness.

The OSHA10 certification is an important milestone because it equips students with essential knowledge of workplace safety, hazard prevention, and employee rights. This nationally recognized credential not only helps students stand out to future employers but also provides them with lifelong skills that are vital in nearly every industry.

Campbell County High School FFA members recently traveled to Tennessee Tech University to participate in specialized clinics designed to help them prepare for upcoming Career Development Events (CDEs). These clinics gave students the chance to sharpen their skills, learn from experts, and gain hands-on experience in areas they will soon compete in.

By attending, FFA members not only strengthened their knowledge but also built confidence as they continue working toward success in regional and state competitions. This experience reflects the dedication and drive of Campbell County's FFA students as they prepare for a strong year ahead.

Students Complete Stop the Bleed Training

Campbell County High School Criminal Justice students recently completed Stop the Bleed training, an important program that teaches how to respond quickly and effectively in life-threatening emergencies. Students learned hands-on techniques to control bleeding, use tourniquets, and provide critical aid until first responders arrive.

This training is especially valuable because severe bleeding is one of the leading causes of preventable death in emergencies. By completing Stop the Bleed, students not only gain practical skills for their future careers in law enforcement or public safety but also become better prepared to protect and help others in their community.

Cosmetology students at CCHS have been hard at work applying their knowledge through creative class projects. Cosmetology II students recently completed detailed projects on the structure of the hair root and shaft, demonstrating their understanding of how hair grows and the science behind healthy hair care. In Cosmetology I, student Lillian England stood out with her impressive project on bacteriology, highlighting the importance of sanitation and safety in the beauty industry. Both projects show how students are building a strong foundation of skills and knowledge that will prepare them for future success in cosmetology. Additionally, Cosmetology II student, Taylor Busher completed her Barbicide training!

INDUSTRY PARTNER SPOTLIGHT

JACKSBORO

Campbell County High School is proud to continue its strong partnership with TCAT Jacksboro, a collaboration that is opening more doors for students than ever before. This partnership provides CCHS students with hands-on training and career-ready skills through dual enrollment opportunities, giving them a head start on their postsecondary education while still in high school.

This year, TCAT Jacksboro is offering more dual enrollment courses than ever directly in our school, allowing students to explore career fields, earn college credit, and gain valuable industry certifications. These opportunities not only prepare students for the workforce but also give them a competitive edge as they transition to college or technical training after graduation. The growing partnership between CCHS and TCAT Jacksboro is helping shape brighter futures for Campbell County students.
