Tennessee Right to Life PAC Endorses Noah Smith
in the General Election for District 36
*Based on Shared Commitment and Dedication to Pro-Life Cause

The state's oldest and largest pro-life organization has endorsed Noah Smith for TN House District 36, representing Campbell, Union and part of Claiborne Counties for the General Election.

“Noah Smith will be a voice for LIFE in the State House,” said Roger Kane, Tennessee Right to Life PAC President. “District 36 will be well represented with Smith in office. His energy and passion for the cause of LIFE will serve District 36 and the entire state well. We look forward to working with Noah in the coming session to protect our most vulnerable citizens.”

Tennesseans have made great strides in restoring protections for women and their unborn children. Currently, it is estimated that the Human Life Protection Act is saving more than 1,000 women and children from legal abortion in our state every month. Keeping this law in place has only been possible through the dedication of pro-life legislators. It is imperative to continue to elect those who are committed to this life-saving work. There remains much work to do which will require courage and conviction.

Tennessee Right to Life strongly believes that Noah Smith will be a positive addition to the legislature and fully endorses his campaign in the General Election. We urge every pro-life voter in House District 36 to work and vote for his election.
